Get out of the office and back in the game.

It's time to stop seeing retreats as self-beneficial. In an increasingly hectic world, taking time to refresh and re-focus is a strategic business move. Whether you choose to experience a new adventure or opt for a more relaxed weekend, the benefits are clear.

Focusing on your company in an off-site environment encourages growth, new ideas and promotes team unity.

A retreat can give a fresh perspective of your company as a whole, nourish clear communication, empower employees and inspire learning.

Live with Purpose Coaching offers full-service retreat planning. Joe Sharp, our resident business/life coach, is available to coach large or small group settings. Choose your desired date, budget, vision for the outing and the approximate distance you would like to travel, and we will take care of planning the details. Whether you are seeking a one-time outing or a quarterly re-charge, our custom retreat planning is fit for any organization. Contact us today to start your adventure.

* Investments for one-day retreats generally range from $500-$1,000, and weekend retreats start from $1,000-$2,000. Investments vary depending on the venue, location, number of employees attending and services desired.
